Guidelines of Bangyeeruae Police Station In accordance with the anti-bribery policy or other benefits to prevent corruption and misconduct

1. The country's policy and strategy focuses on public administration in accordance with the principles of good home affairs management with transparency and accountability.

1.1 Government policy is presented to the National Legislative Assembly. On September 12, 2014, the focus was on promotion. Public administration with good governance and prevention of corruption and misconduct in the public sector By adhering to the principles of good home affairs management to build confidence in the bureaucracy. Reduce operating costs of the business sector to increase the potential to compete with other countries. This includes putting in place legal measures to prevent officials from avoiding it. Or abuse of power causing corruption or damage to the public in particular. This includes the prevention and suppression of corruption and conflicts of interest in the public sector at all levels, considering this as an urgent national priority and a matter that must be inserted into all aspects of reform.

1.2 Code of Ethics One of the core values of ethical standards for public officials is "good conscience, honesty, integrity and responsibility" and adherence to the principles of professional ethics of the organization. By virtue of their position and non-performance of acts that are in conflict between personal and collective interests. 1) Not to call, receive, or allow others to receive or allow others to receive or allow gifts on behalf of themselves or their relatives, whether before or after holding office or performing their duties, whether related to the performance of their duties or not, unless it is a moral giving or a traditional or public giving, 2) not to use the position or act that is yours or to punish any person because of prejudice, 3) not to propose or approve a project, operation, or legal act or contract in which oneself or another person would benefit unlawfully by this law or code of ethics.

1.3 Regulations of the Office of the Prime Minister on the Giving or Receiving of Gifts of Public Officials B.E. 2544 To have clear guidelines. The Office of the Prime Minister has issued regulations governing the receipt or giving of gifts as a guideline for government officials in giving and receiving gifts to the same standard. For example, government officials will give gifts to superiors or family members of superiors in addition to popular traditions where gifts cannot be given to each other, and gifts according to popular traditions must have the price and value as specified by the National Anti-Corruption Commission, and supervisors will allow their family members to accept gifts from subordinates, etc.

1.4 Notification of the National Anti-Corruption Commission on the criteria for receiving property or other benefits by virtue of public officials B.E. 2543 by virtue of Section 103 of the Constitution Act on Prevention and Suppression of Corruption Act B.E. 2542 The National Anti-Corruption Commission has established criteria and the amount of property or other benefits that officials can receive from a person by virtue of their ethics. To establish rules for obtaining property or other benefits that can be legally done.

Therefore, to the personnel of the Bangyeeruae Police Station. Have practices that are in line with the strategic policy. In terms of the prevention and suppression of corruption, ethical regulations, the Comptroller's Department has established guidelines. In accordance with the policy against giving or accepting bribes or other benefits to prevent corruption and misconduct of the Bangyeeruae Police Station.
